Shade Trees Beautify the Lawn

SHADE TREES NOT PREPAID UNLESS OTHERWISE NOTED

A broad open space of well kept lawn is the first essential of good landscape design, the base against which all else is viewed. Yet it is incomplete without trees to shield the house from the direct heat of the sun, and for ornament. Without trees as a background so the topmost branches extend above and break the roof lines, and a few toward the ends to frame the view, the house appears lost in space.

The bark of the European White Birch is chalky white.

Birch, European White, Betula alba

A beautiful, graceful tree of peculiar charm; slender branches, the ends drooping with age, bark chalky white; leaves rather small, triangular, bright light green, yellow in autumn.

6 to 8 ft. 3.50 each

Crab, Flowering; Malus

One of the best groups of small trees for ease of growth, profusion and beauty of flowers. For the Midwest they are more satisfactory than the famed Japanese Flowering Cherries, give much the same effect, and are dependable.

Crab, Hopa; Malus Hopa

See color illustration and prices, inside back cover.

Crab, Scheideckeri; Malus Scheideckeri. Loaded in latter April with semi-double flowers 1 1/4 to 1 1/2 in. across, pink on a white ground; delicate fragrance; yellow crabs 3/4 in. across in latter September-October; upright habit, reaching a height of about 8 ft.; blooms young; very resistant to cedar rust.

3 to 4 ft. 1.00 each 4 to 5 ft. 1.35 each
5 to 6 ft. 1.75 each

Dogwood, Red Flowering

See color illustration and prices, inside back cover.

Dogwood, White Flowering

See color page, inside back cover.

Once established, nothing will increase in value and give such good results with so little attention as shade trees.

When planting remove any unnecessary weak limbs and shorten some others. The central shoot or leader is not pruned unless necessary to make the head more dense. As limbs develop higher remove the lower ones to the height desired. Plant firmly, and water as needed, especially first year.

THE SENSATIONAL NEW Elm Coolshade

Elm, Coolshade, in the Gardens at Sarcoxie.
(Inset shows ordinary Chinese Elm.)

Undoubtedly the most beautiful Elm we have ever seen. It is a most practical all-purpose shade tree. Unlike the American Elm, it does not have large lateral limbs that are dangerous when overhanging the residence. It may be planted close to the house without worry.

IT'S TOUGH—does not break in the wind and under the burden of ice and snow like the ordinary Chinese Elm.

IT'S BEAUTIFUL—forms a compact tree, somewhat resembling the Hard Maple in form.

IT'S HARDY—like all Chinese Elm, it is hardy and drought resistant. Apparently it is not subject to the Dutch Elm disease or Phloem necrosis which affects the American Elm.

IT'S CLEAN—does not shed leaves early and cause an unsightly lawn—holds its leaves late into the fall.

IT'S RAPID IN GROWTH—not quite so rapid as ordinary Chinese Elm, however produces an abundance of deep green foliage affording a complete shade—a "COOLSHADE"—and a truly beautiful shade tree.

WE SINCERELY RECOMMEND THIS AS THE BEST ELM WE HAVE EVER KNOWN. Grows 35 to 50 feet high.

Honeysuckle, Bush; Lonicera

Those only acquainted with climbing honeysuckle should plant some of the bush form for their beauty of foliage, profusion of flowers in pairs at the base of the leaves in latter April, and abundant, brilliant berries about the size of a currant, often even more showy than the flowers, in June, when we have few ornamental berries. An excellent specimen shrub and good for screen plantings, because compact in growth, with neat foliage retained late. Of easy culture; suitable for partial shade. Should have sufficient space to develop naturally. Prune if necessary after blooming which, however, reduces the number of berries that year. Most varieties grow 6 to 8 ft. high.

Sarcxie—NEW—Spreading Shrub "Grodense"

We have found this plant to be superior to the older and better known spreading privet, Regel. It is a sport of Amur River North, closely resembling Regel. The almost horizontal spreading branches with their small green leaves produce a beautiful foliage effecting an individual plant; group or as a foundation planting.

Used as a hedge it develops, by shearing, into a low dense hedge with its branches close to the ground. Any width up to two or two and one-half feet and a height of three feet may be produced.

For hedging grades refer to page 8 under hedge. The plants priced here are finished for shrub use.

THE SPIREAS

Justly popular for their hardiness, thriftiness, profusion of bloom, graceful habit, neat foliage, and general freedom from serious insects and diseases. The early blooming Spireas, after the bush attains good size, should have some old wood removed to the ground each year immediately after blooming. Prune late, blooms in early spring before growth starts. When neglected for years it may be necessary to prune almost the entire plant to the ground in early spring. They succeed in any moderately moist lawn soil of average fertility.

Spirea Anthony Waterer

Small five-petaled rosy-crimson flowers in dense flat clusters cover the 3 ft. bush in early June. If the flowers are cut off as they fade it blooms at intervals until fall. Dwarf, compact, upright habit; rather fine textured deep green foliage. Excellent for foundation and border plantings, and in front of taller shrubs. Succeeds with sun half the day. Spirea Van Houttei—Excellent as a shrub or hedge.

Peach Trees

Peaches come into bearing younger than any other tree fruit, under favorable conditions giving a crop the third year and yields are larger as the trees grow older. A few trees won't cost as much as you probably pay for peaches in one year, and none are so delicious as those freshly picked when ripened on the tree. To the man who has room for a commercial orchard, and will cultivate, prune and take care of the trees, peaches offer great opportunities for good profits. A sandy loam or gravelly soil is best, but the peach adapts itself to almost any well drained soil. Sometimes they are planted 18x18, but 25x25, requiring 75 trees per acre, is better.
